SCHROON -- The town of Schroon has received a $585,000 grant to help replac a sewer line underneath Main Street.

The work will be done on the Rogers Brook sanitary sewer line, which the state Division of Housing & Community Renewal said was in "extremely poor condition."

The agency announced the grant Wednesday. The funding will come through the community block and development grant program.

The project will also use $3.5 million in stimulus funding, the agency said.
